

Rainbow Station franchisee recognized by International Franchise Association

(Richmond, VA Sept. 10) – Nicole Eubanks-Lambert was honored by the International Franchise Association as a Franchisee of the Year. Eubanks-Lambert owns the newly opened Rainbow Station school in Wyndham. The award is given to International Franchise Association (IFA)-member company franchisees to honor outstanding performance and contributions to the growth and development of the nation's franchising industry.

Rainbow Station franchise owner Gail Johnson nominated Eubanks-Lambert for her perseverance in the face of numerous obstacles during the construction of the school. Eubanks-Lambert was recognized on September 10 during the IFA's annual Franchise Appreciation Day in Washington, DC.

Rainbow Station, a 2006 winner of the Better Business Bureau's Torch Award for Business Integrity, is headquartered in Richmond. There are six corporate Rainbow Station schools in Richmond, and franchise locations in Virginia, North Carolina and Texas. All corporate and franchise schools are accredited, or seeking accreditation, by the National Association for the Education of Young Children, the National Afterschool Association and the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools. For more information, 804-747-5900, www.rainbowstation.org.

The IFA's membership includes nearly 10,000 franchisees and 1,300 franchise companies. It promotes franchising worldwide.
